

Page Types

Informational Pages

Used to add information to your site, they are the most common type of page.

Your home page is an example of an Informational Page.

You can add text, images, links to new pages, and upload files such as music and presentation files.

All Informational pages have an Outside Link Control for displaying links to other websites.

Teacher Websites

Easy-to-update sites help you communicate with students and parents.

Updating your website is simple. Just log-in using the form at the top of any site page. After login, all the sections of your page become editable.

You can add pictures, links and information quickly and easily right on the page.

Add Multiple Items to Any Page

Break up your pages using multiple headings.

When pages are broken into smaller sections, website visitors can browse through, and quickly see information pertinent to them.

Links to Other Websites	Description
USGS Learning Web	Add links to interesting and useful websites.
Ask Dr. Universe	Add links to interesting and useful websites.

Calendar Pages

There are several pages on your website that use a Calendar, such as Homework, Calendar, Projects, and pages you can create yourself.

The Calendar Control allows you to add Event Information, and link it to dates displayed on the calendar.

Clicking dates on the Calendar will display events set for that date.

You can keep using the same Event Information year-after-year simply by changing the Event Date.

Gallery Pages

Use Gallery Pages to exhibit things like student work, or photos of school events.

You can add as many images as you'd like. Gallery pages display thumbnail size images that can be linked to larger images to full detail.

Gallery Control works the same as an Image Control, except that you can add multiple images to a page. Note that adding many images to a page may slow viewing.

As with other Image Controls, you can add captions and links to larger images.
